

ABSTRACT

Various aspects of the invention can be found in a method or system of global 5 vendor financing that automatically process vendor financing applications. A vendor financing application is received over a computer network and indicates an asset(s) to be financed and an applicant desiring the asset(s). Credit information is gathered about the applicant and the application is scored and a prices is then determined if the customer qualifies for the vendor financing. The credit information may be gathered from one of a 10 plurality of credit information sources in one or more countries. The method or system of global vendor financing may handling vendor financing applications in multiple languages and multiple currencies. Optionally, the system or method may include push services and workflow management.